

DENVER AIR CONNECTION FAQ

When does Denver Air Connection (DAC) start service in Kearney?

DAC starts on November 1, 2022

Where does Denver Air Connection (DAC) go out of Kearney?

DAC is providing 12 weekly round trip flights from Kearney to Denver (EAS)

What will the schedule be?

Schedule will be similar to the current schedule through December, including an early morning departure. Beginning in early January, the morning flight will leave Kearney at 7:30 am. There will be a midday flight to Denver from Kearney and a returning flight from Denver to Kearney arriving at 7:40 p.m.

Which terminal will DAC be located in?

DAC is in terminal C. To access Terminal B, use the airport train

What type of aircraft will DAC fly?

Generally, a 50 passenger ERJ50 passenger jet, occasionally, a 30 passenger jet.

How do I book a ticket?

Travelers going directly to Denver, book on fly-dac.com. If travelers are looking to go beyond Denver, flights can be booked on united.com, AA.com or travelocity.com or Expedia or by using a travel agent

Does DAC offer reserved seating?

DAC uses open seating-- first come, first serve for their aircraft.

Why does the ticket say "Key Lime Air" instead of DAC?

DAC is owned by Key Lime Air, also referred to as DBA as Denver Air Connection.

Will my bags be transferred from DAC to other airlines?

DAC has interline ticketing and baggage agreements with United Airlines/American Airlines so passengers will have access to the United and American network. Checked baggage connecting to- or from- the United/American network need only be checked in the originating city and will transfer to United/American flights.

How do I connect to Denver Air Connection?

On the web, type in flydac.com or Google "Denver Air Connection. Also, you can call the DAC Customer Service Center at (866) 373-8513.

Typically, no baggage fees on Denver Air Connection.

Still have questions? For additional information contact Michelle Lewis, michelle@travelkearney.com

